

PATRICIA "PATTY" WAGSTAFF

Aviator (1951 - present)

Wagstaff is an American aerobatic national champion pilot. Wagstaff spent her childhood traveling with her family and her father, who was a pilot for Japan Airlines. Wagstaff was on the U.S. Aerobatic Team from 1985 - 1996 and was the top U.S. medal winner in international competitions. In 1991, Wagstaff won her first of three US National Aerobatic Championships, and was the first woman to win that competition. In 2004 she was elected to enter the National Aviation Hall of Fame. She is currently an airshow pilot, stunt pilot for films, consultant, flight instructor and author.
